

A Global History of Trade and Conflict Since 1500

Also by Lucia Coppolaro

THE MAKING OF A WORLD TRADING POWER: The European Economic Community (EEC) in the GATT Kennedy Round Negotiations (1963–67)

Also by Francine McKenzie

REDEFINING THE BONDS OF COMMONWEALTH 1939–1948: The Politics of Preference

PARTIES LONG ESTRANGED: Canada and Australia in the Twentieth Century (co-edited with Margaret Macmillan)

A Global History of Trade and Conflict Since 1500

Edited by

Lucia Coppolaro

Post-Doctoral Research Fellow, Institute of Social Sciences, University of Lisbon, Portugal

and

Francine McKenzie

Associate Professor, Department of History, University of Western Ontario, Canada

palgrave
macmillan

Editorial matter, selection and Chapter 8 © Lucia Coppolaro and Francine McKenzie 2013

Remaining chapters © Respective authors 2013

Softcover reprint of the hardcover 1st edition 2013 978-1-137-32682-9

All rights reserved. No reproduction, copy or transmission of this publication may be made without written permission.

No portion of this publication may be reproduced, copied or transmitted save with written permission or in accordance with the provisions of the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988, or under the terms of any licence permitting limited copying issued by the Copyright Licensing Agency, Saffron House, 6–10 Kirby Street, London EC1N 8TS.

Any person who does any unauthorized act in relation to this publication may be liable to criminal prosecution and civil claims for damages.

The authors have asserted their rights to be identified as the authors of this work in accordance with the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988.

First published 2013 by
PALGRAVE MACMILLAN

Palgrave Macmillan in the UK is an imprint of Macmillan Publishers Limited, registered in England, company number 785998, of Houndmills, Basingstoke, Hampshire RG21 6XS.

Palgrave Macmillan in the US is a division of St. Martin's Press LLC, 175 Fifth Avenue, New York, NY 10010.

Palgrave Macmillan is the global academic imprint of the above companies and has companies and representatives throughout the world.

Palgrave® and Macmillan® are registered trademarks in the United States, the United Kingdom, Europe and other countries

ISBN 978-1-349-45998-8 ISBN 978-1-137-32683-6 (eBook)
DOI 10.1057/9781137326836

This book is printed on paper suitable for recycling and made from fully managed and sustained forest sources. Logging, pulping and manufacturing processes are expected to conform to the environmental regulations of the country of origin.

A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library.

A catalog record for this book is available from the Library of Congress.

Contents

List of Figures and Tables	viii
Acknowledgements	x
Notes on Contributors	xii
List of Abbreviations and Acronyms	xv
Introduction: The Intersection of Trade and Conflict Since 1500	1
Francine McKenzie
A short account of the long history of trade and conflict	5
Chapter summaries	11
Conclusions	17
Notes	18
1 Trade and Conflict in the South China Sea: Portugal and China, 1514–23	20
Timothy Brook
Trade and tribute	22
The contradiction between trade and diplomacy	24
Debates over trade policy	26
Conflict	29
Consequences for trade with China	34
Notes	36
2 Portuguese Resilience in Global War: Military Motivation and Institutional Adaptation in the Sixteenth- and Seventeenth-Century Cape Route	38
Leonor Freire Costa
A world of contracts	41
Endogenous challenges	46
Distribution of spoils	53
Conclusions	59
Notes	60
3 An Explosion of Violence: How the Haitian Revolution Rearranged the Trade Patterns of the Western Hemisphere	62
Steven Topik
The historiography of the Haitian Revolution	62
Trade and conflict	65

	The new modern world of the late eighteenth century or: sweet industry	66
	Saint Domingue	67
	The United States and Haiti	71
	Cuban coffee	74
	Cuban sugar	75
	The USA starts producing sugar in Louisiana	77
	Brazil changes the world coffee economy	79
	Conclusions	82
	Notes	83
4	Lifting the Continental Blockade: Britain, Portugal and Brazilian Trade in the Global Context of the Napoleonic Wars	87
	José Luís Cardoso
	The Continental Blockade and Napoleon's imperial project	88
	The economic scope and limits of the Continental Blockade	92
	The opening of Brazilian ports and British trade interests	96
	Receptivity to the British and their welcome in Brazil	99
	Conclusions	102
	Notes	102
5	Retreat from Globalization: Britain and the Renewal of Imperial Trade between the Two World Wars	105
	Tim Rooth
	The British case	106
	Treaty-making and imperial preferences	109
	International repercussions	117
	A paradox of economic performance and postwar policy	118
	Conclusions: patterns of integration and disintegration	121
	Notes	122
6	Trade and Conflict in the Rhetoric of Winston Churchill	124
	Richard Toye
	Churchill's involvement in the politics of trade	125
	Churchill's defence of free trade and empire	127
	Pragmatism and politics: Churchill's defence of protection and imperial trade	132
	Conclusions	138
	Notes	139
7	War, Revolution and the Great Depression in the Global Wheat Trade, 1917–39	142
	Gregory P. Marchildon
	The impact of the First World War and the Russian Revolution on the wheat trade	145

Wheat and war: exploring the causes of the Great Depression	147
Home market protectionism and the Smoot-Hawley Tariff	152
The British Empire, the Ottawa Conference and trade diversion	155
The International Wheat Conference of 1933	157
Conclusions	158
Notes	159
8 Trading Blocs and Trading Blows: GATT's Conflictual Path to Trade Liberalization, 1947–67	163
Lucia Coppolaro and Francine McKenzie
War, conflict and the establishment of GATT	164
Liberalization and development: stalled agendas	167
The Kennedy Round: liberalization revitalized but some left behind	174
Conclusions	181
Notes	184
9 Nixon's War with the International Economy	188
Thomas W. Zeiler
Money-driven trade policy	190
Global competition	192
Trade as the symptom	194
Textile trade war	196
Camp David and the import surcharge shock	198
Negative impact?	204
Conclusions	207
Notes	208
Conclusion: Dismissing the Kantian View of Trade and Peace	211
Renato Galvão Flôres, Jr.
Notes	219
Bibliography	220
Index	239

Figures and Tables

Figures

2.1	Production costs	47
2.2	Economies of scale	51
2.3	Rate of risk in the Portuguese Cape Route	52
5.1	Percentage share of the Dominions' exports to the UK	109
5.2	GDP per capita, selected countries, 1929, 1932 and 1937	119
7.1	Wheat production, the Big Four, 1922–38 crop years	150
8.1	Average EEC and USA tariffs on dutiable imports, as a percentage of cost, insurance and freight (CIF) value, before and after the Kennedy Round	177
8.2	Developed and developing countries' market share in textiles and clothing	179

Tables

I.1	Annual rate of growth of world trade	6
I.2	World exports as a percentage of total world production	6
2.1	Capital invested in the Botecabelo (in reais): contracts at partido do meio	43
2.2	Distribution of returned cargo: pepper	44
2.3	Shipping costs	50
2.4	Portuguese Cape Route shipping	51
2.5	Auction for the contract of duties and freights of the carracks arrived in 1617	54
2.6a	The Armada of 1615: costs incurred by the Crown	56
2.6b	Rates of return under new institutional arrangements	57
3.1	USA coffee imports from the West Indies, 1790–91	72
3.2	Brazil's share of world coffee exports, 1850–1900	79
3.3	USA and European share of world coffee imports, 1850–1900	80
5.1	Total retained imports into the UK and the share of empire and selected Dominions, 1929, 1932 and 1937	113
5.2	Imports into the UK from selected foreign trade agreement countries, 1929, 1932 and 1937	114
5.3	UK exports to North European trade agreement countries	115
5.4	UK exports to selected Dominions	115
7.1	The Big Four exporters' share of world wheat trade, 1909–37	146

7.2	Average annual prices of imported wheat in the United Kingdom, 1922–38	148
7.3	World wheat stocks, the Big Four exporting nations and the world, 1922–39	149
7.4	Four major European wheat importers, consumption	152
7.5	Import duties on wheat	153
8.1	GATT Rounds and their main results	168
8.2	Share of world trade	171

Acknowledgements

This volume emerged from a workshop held in Lisbon in July 2010 at the Institute of Social Sciences of the University of Lisbon. Maya Shatzmiller provided the original spark to begin thinking critically and historically about the relationship between trade and conflict. The University of Western Ontario, the Institute of Social Sciences of the University of Lisbon, the Portuguese Foundation for Science and Technology and the Bank of Portugal generously provided funding to host the workshop where the contributors, along with Maya Shatzmiller, Bruce Muirhead and Sebastian R. Prange, presented their preliminary findings.

This was an unusual gathering of historians. We are more likely to attend differently specialized academic meetings with scholars who fall into our respective subfields, be it Chinese history, meetings of medievalists or diplomatic historians. This was a golden opportunity to situate our studies in a global historical and comparative framework and in a 500-year period: the exchanges amongst us were enlightening and deeply educational. Economists and economic historians also participated in the workshop. Economists and historians rarely find the opportunity to speak directly. The questions, observations and suggestions of economists challenged and enriched the case studies as they moved forward for inclusion in this volume. Renato Galvão Flôres, Jr., one of the economists present, subsequently joined the group of contributors and brought his sharp insights and wide-ranging experience as a practitioner and scholar to bear.

The editors are grateful to their home institutions for their support for this project. The contributors have been exemplars of professionalism, generosity and dedication. Their contributions to the shaping of the volume exceed their individual chapters. They have also been exceedingly patient with enthusiastic, and sometimes demanding, editors. There are many debts to our respective networks of colleagues who have read earlier drafts of these chapters: their thanks are expressed in individual chapters. The anonymous reviewer made many constructive suggestions and the volume is better for them.

Palgrave Macmillan has been the ideal home for this volume. Jen McCall and Holly Tyler have been wonderful to work with: clear, reasonable and decisive. Roza I. M. El-Eini has been thorough in copy-editing and proofreading the book. Tyler Turek's work on the Index is much appreciated.

We would like to thank our families for their support and forbearance: they have heard a lot about trade and conflict over the last few years. Michael Szonyi and Fabrizio Fissi must be singled out for their encouragement.

Notes on Contributors

Timothy Brook is Professor of History at the Department of History and Institute of Asian Research at the University of British Columbia. He is the author of a dozen books on Chinese history. Vermeer's Hat (2008) intersects Ming China with world history. The Troubled Empire (2010), part of the six-volume History of Imperial China that he edited for Harvard University Press, reconsiders China from 1260 to 1644 from an environmental perspective. His most recent book, on the integration of geographical knowledge between Europe and Asia in the seventeenth century, is entitled Mr. Selden's Map of China (2013).

José Luís Cardoso is Research Professor and Deputy Director of the Institute of Social Sciences of the University of Lisbon. His research interests include the history of economic thought, economic history and the methodology of economics, and his expertise is on the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. His publications include several books and articles on the history of economics from a comparative perspective such as A History of Portuguese Economic Thought (1998, co-author), and Paying for the Liberal State: The Rise of Public Finance in Nineteenth-Century Europe (2010, co-editor).

Lucia Coppolaro is a Post-Doctoral Research Fellow at the Institute of Social Sciences of the University of Lisbon. Her research interests include the economic and political history of contemporary Europe, the history of international relations since 1945, and the history and political economy of international trade. She has written widely on GATT and the European Union's trade policy and has published numerous articles in journals, including International History Review and Contemporary European History. She is also the author of The Making of a World Trading Power: The European Economic Community (EEC) in the GATT Kennedy Round Negotiations (1963–67) (2013).

Leonor Freire Costa is Professor of Economic History at the School of Economics and Management of the Technical University of Lisbon. Her research focuses on maritime and colonial histories. Her publications include Naus e Galeões na Ribeira de Lisboa. A Construção Naval para a Rota do Cabo no Século XVI (1997), and (with M. Manuela Rocha and Tanya Araújo) 'Social Capital and Economic Performance: Trust and Distrust in Eighteenth-Century Gold Shipments from Brazil', European Review of Economic History, 15 (1) (2011).

Renato Galvão Flôres, Jr. is a former (elected) member of the Permanent Group of Experts of the Committee on Subsidies and Countervailing Measures, World Trade Organization, Geneva. He was a negotiator for the Fourth Protocol of the Agreement on Telecommunications, after the Uruguay Round, and has served in several trade delegations from Brazil. He is currently Professor at the Graduate School of Economics (EPGE), Fundação Getulio Vargas (FGV), in Brazil. His research interests are in development economics and sustainable growth and trade (theory and policy) as well as in the relations between international law, politics and economics, within the context of globalization. He co-edited the Regional Integration Manual (2011).

Gregory P. Marchildon is Professor and Canada Research Chair in Public Policy and Economic History at the University of Regina. He has published extensively on Canadian economic and policy history from a comparative perspective. He is the author of Profits and Politics: Beaverbrook and the Gilded Age of Canadian Finance (1996), and Canada: Health Systems in Transition (2012), both published by the University of Toronto Press.

Francine McKenzie is Associate Professor in the Department of History at the University of Western Ontario. Her research interests include the history of international relations and global trade, the British Commonwealth and postwar reconstruction after the Second World War. Her recent publications relate to settler economies, the GATT and American foreign economic policy. She is the author of Redefining the Bonds of Commonwealth 1939–1948: The Politics of Preference (2002), and has co-edited Parties Long Estranged: Canada and Australia in the Twentieth Century (2003).

Tim Rooth is Emeritus Professor of Modern Economic History at the University of Portsmouth. His research interests relate to the twentieth-century international economy and British Commonwealth economic relations. He is the author of British Protectionism and the International Economy: Overseas Commercial Policy in the 1930s (1993), and has published numerous articles and book chapters, most recently on settler economies.

Steven Topik is Professor of History at the University of California, Irvine. He is an expert on the history of Latin America, the study of commodities, especially coffee, and political economy. He co-wrote

(with Kenneth Pomeranz) The World that Trade Created: Society, Culture, and the World Economy, 1400 to the Present (1999). He co-authored with Allen Wells 'Commodity Chains in a Global Economy', in Emily Rosenberg (ed.), A World Connecting (2012). He co-edited with Mario Samper Crisis y transformaciones del mundo del café (2012).

Richard Toye is Professor of Modern History at the University of Exeter. His expertise lies in the fields of rhetoric, British economic and political history, international economic institutions and the British Empire and Commonwealth. His books include The Labour Party and the Planned Economy, 1931–1951 (2003), Churchill's Empire: The World that Made Him and the World He Made (2010), and Rhetoric: A Very Short Introduction (2013).

Thomas W. Zeiler is Professor of History and International Affairs at the University of Colorado, Boulder. He has published books on trade, foreign policy, cultural diplomacy (via baseball), globalization and the Second World War. His recent publications include Annihilation: A Global Military History of World War II (2011), Ambassadors in Pinstripes: The Spalding World Baseball Tour and the Birth of the American Empire (2006), and Globalization and the American Century, co-written with Alfred E. Eckes, Jr. (2003). He has served as President (2012) of the Society for Historians of American Foreign Relations and is editor of the journal Diplomatic History.

Abbreviations and Acronyms

CAP	Common Agricultural Policy
CCP	Common Commercial Policy
CET	Common External Tariffs
DCs	Developing countries
DG	Directorate General
EEC	European Economic Community
EFTA	European Free Trade Association
EIC	East India Company
EU	European Union
GATT	General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade
GDL	GATT Digital Library, Stanford University, CA
GDP	Gross Domestic Product
GSP	General System of Preferences
ITO	International Trade Organization
LDCs	Less-developed countries
LTA	Long Term Agreement on Cotton Textiles
MFN	Most-favoured nation
NATO	North Atlantic Treaty Organization
NLA	National Library of Australia
NSC	National Security Council
OECD	Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development
OEEC	Organisation for European Economic Co-operation
OMB	Office of Management and the Budget
OPEC	Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries
QRs	Quantitative restrictions
RTAA	Regional Trade Agreement Act
TEA	Trade Expansion Act
UN	United Nations
UNCTAD	United Nations Conference on Trade and Development
VOC	Vereenigde Oost-Indische Compagnie or Dutch East India Company
WTO	World Trade Organization